Report: The Head of the Dept. Dr. Santosh Kumar Padhi

in presenting the paper on "New Trends in the Indian Literature in English" deliberated how Indian literature in English has been extensive with the translations. Lots of poems, novels, short stories and even plays are translated in to English from regional literatures. At Present, literature has been plural and vast that no one can count the number of texts published every years. Growing with the 'isms' the present trend is rapidly changing as new critiques usher in literature specially English. General terms have become critical terms with the vastness of English literature. Post-Independent India has witnessed the speed of development of the Indian English flailing all over the globe. With a deep cordial thank to all the members present in the Seminar, Dr. Padhy ended his paper presentation.

Dr. Padhy 6.10.18

of the Dept. in presenting his paper discussed how nature/environment and literature are co-exist together as if one is not possible without the other. one aspect we can learn from that we must take care of our environment at any cost otherwise we will be worst sufferers of time. On the other hand, environment is the metaphysical home / the other home that needs to be saved in this time of high pollution. A 3rd year student, Miss Bharati Sahu expressed her heart-felt thanks to the audience present in the seminar.

Dr. P. S. 13.10.18

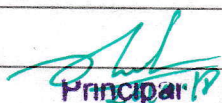

Indian independence i.e 1947. It is also the time of post-war (second world war) period from which the entire world needed to be escaped from its effect. Re-inventing the Indian English literature is also a new kind of concept and thought that is looking into the Indian English literature with its nativity, which means the idea and intention of the British Raj is reiterated with its western impact and everyone along with the literary men wants to be reformed from the British / western culture in India to accept traditional values of the Indian past and ancient civilization that to be saved for a simple, better, decent and polite life in our native land. Discussing all these aspects along with the comparison of native culture, Dr. Santosh Kumar Padhy, Head of the Dept not only detailed <sup>the topic</sup> in the seminar but also thanked all for their cooperation at the end.

began his paper soon after the students have presented their papers on the subjects of course of study. On the very topic "Contemporary literatures in English perspectives", Dr. Padhy continued how India is enriching with scores of languages emerging from different regional languages. With the changing perspectives, contemporary literatures are set in the post-war period. Clarifying the term 'Contemporary literatures', Dr. Padhy talked about the present time literature, which is now living and belonging to the present time. It was about the writers after the second world war and their creative consciousness well-defined, realistic in nature and highly developed characters the writers have chosen from the contemporary time. Dr. Padhy in concluding his paper specially focused on psychological effect in literature that has created a lot of problem in family life and social life rather solving them all. Report: Lighting the lamp, Dr. Rabindra Kumar Pradhan, Head of the English, SVB Women's College Brahmapur was the key note speaker of the seminar. In his deliverance, he deliberated feminism since 18th century across the world. Focusing on the topic in the course of study for the degree students, he specially elaborated "A Vindication of the Rights of the Women" an essay on a theoretical aspect of studying feminism. Besides, Dr. Santosh Kumar Padhy, Head of the English Dept detailed feminism as a western thought and not appropriate to our nation because we worship women in our country as mother, daughter and wife with a greater respect and honour. Therefore we needn't look at the western culture in a changed environment if we truly want to save our society from a total ruin in future. Thanking the gathering at the end, Dr. Sasmita Kumari Sahu, the faculty member of our department reiterated each speaker's message that will be useful for all of them present in the seminar. Besides,

Dr. Basant Kumar Sethi, another faculty member of our department arranged a cultural show performed by our beloved students. His management of the show left a valuable message in the heart of each one present that "art is never ending, so also literature," who finally thanked everyone participated in the seminar.

- 10) Banita Kumari Das (+3 1st year)
- 11) Resmarami Mahapatra (+3 2nd year)
- 12) Sanjana Panigrahy (+3 2nd year)

Report : Dr. Santosh Kumar Padhy, Head of the Dept left a kind of thought for all of us by analyzing a paper, "Ecofeminism in Literature." He began his paper with a very simple question: "What are we caring for if we don't care for our home?" Truly, our environment is our extended home we move on in our daily life. Yet the matter of serious grief is that we don't care for our living atmosphere, nature and environment. We must save the same at any cost -

Sethi presented his paper on Romanticism and then Dr. Sasmita Kumari Sahu on psychoanalysis. Sri Sanjay Kumar Panigrahy our guest-faculty of the department also added a few significant points to the seminar. Later, the Head of the Dept. before his vote of thanks cleared it was the message our head left for all of us in the seminar. Another significant aspect is that almost all the literary texts are never written with ~~out~~ expressing science of physical nature all around us. Then in his deliberation, he expressed that how women writers in their major voice focus on nature by discussing their feminist front on the current issues to wake up the readers for which they all are aptly called as ecofeminists, a third of wave <sup>movement</sup> on their way of dealing literature. Sri Sanjay Kumar Panigrahy, another faculty member, thanked all at the end of the seminar.

10. Bonita Kumari Das (+3, 1st year)
11. Resmaritami Maharana (+3, 2nd year)
12. Sanjana Panigrahy (+3, 2nd year)

Report: As the student strength is less today, still we are holding the seminar with out paper presentation from other student friends. I must thank Sri Basant Kumar Sethi, our faculty member who has presented a nice paper for all of us with a very simple language and clear-cut notion on "The Study of poetry" an essay by Matthew Arnold, the Victorian poet. Dr. Sasmita Kumari while deeply engrossed by the paper raised certain questions, which are more valuable for our students. It seemed that with out presenting papers, our students very attractively participated in the discussion as if the judgement of poetry since Aristotle is reiterated in each month. Finally she deliberated her vote of thanks before the weekly seminar is over.

Topic: "RASA THEORY"

The weekly seminar is conducted at 12 noon on 5.1.2023 as the first seminar of the New year 2023 in which the Head of the dept. delivered the Indian theory of criticism and a truthful experience of daily life "The Rasa Theory." It is our native theory very ancient and prevalent since the existence of the human life with Navarasa (nine kinds of Rasa). The following members were present in the seminar:-

1. SK Pady
2. Sayamita Kumari Saha
- 3.
4. Lipi Pradhan (+3 1st year)

Report: It is usual to organise weekly seminars but since covid days, weekly seminars are slackened number as well as work load on the IQAC and NAAC coordinators as our college is going to submit SSR for NAAC accreditation of 43 years old college, the dept. has been compelled to cancel certain weekly seminars for which we remain owe to our students. Any way, we are glad to begin our seminar today which is an ever-living topic for all of human beings that also helps immeasurably how to ~~practice~~ "sa vidya ya vimuktaye" in practical life that is the best example of 'shanta' or peace as it is best practiced in life by

"Post-modernism"

A weekly Seminar was conducted in our Department of English, Science college Konkorada along with 1st yr, 2nd yr & 3rd year students. It is, however, surprising that no paper is presented by our students.

The following members were present and the topic discussed today by the Head, is thought provoking.

1. Santosh Kumar Padg
2. Samita Kumari Sahu, Lect. in English.
3. Basanta Kumar Sethi Lect. in Eng.
4. Lipi pradhan (+3, 1st year)
5. Subashree Panida (+3 1st year)
6. Priyanka Bidgyi (+3 2nd year)
7. Simarini Secoin (+3 1st year)
8. D. Santosini patra (+3 1st year)
9. Liza Behera (+3 1st year)
10. Banita Kumari Das (+3 1st year)
11. Resmarani maharana (+3 2nd year)
12. Sanjana Panigrahy (+3 2nd year)

Report: Tradition was undoubtedly led up all to modernism and later post-modernism in which literature is not only followed for teaching - learning process but also choosing how to lead a better life by comparing traditional values as well as modern and post-modern values in the changing time. Therefore, one thing is true that 'lit' are not only meant for study purpose ~~only~~ but also making life better and it is life and society that makes literature.
